Meet Caroline.

14-year-old Caroline bounced around from school to school almost every year since kindergarten.

When she arrived at Thornwell, she was behind in all of her subjects and lacked confidence. You can imagine then what it was like for a kid like Caroline who never stayed in one place long enough to connect to anyone or learn anything consistently. It was just easier for her to shut everything out.

At Thornwell, it's important that kids like Caroline are offered both stability and a personalized learning approach.

During her time at Thornwell, Caroline experienced a shift in her attitude--school became less about what she couldn't do and more about what she could.

You help us meet kids where they are. When Caroline began to understand where she was in relation to the standard, she became an active participant in her education who experienced stages of acceptance, ownership, and empowerment.

Today, she's on track to graduate early from high school and has big dreams to become a pediatric nurse!

Thank you for believing kids like Caroline deserve an education. It's your support that makes all the difference!
